BLM seeks advisory council nominees

ANCHORAGE --- The Bureau of Land Management (BLM) is calling for nominations to its statewide 15-member advisory council. BLM is seeking qualified individuals to fill positions in the following categories-commercial recreation/tourism (1 position), dispersed recreation (one position), elected official (one position), Alaska Natives (one position), public at large (one position).

The Alaska Resource Advisory Council provides advice and recommendations to the BLM on land management issues for 86 million acres of public lands in Alaska. Members serve three-year terms and may be reappointed for consecutive terms. Council members serve without salary but are reimbursed travel expenses. The council includes a cross section of Alaskans from around the state representing energy, tourism and commercial recreation interests; environmental, archeological and historic interests; and elected officials, Alaska Native organizations and the general public.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others. Nominees should have appropriate background and experience to give informed, objective advice on a broad array of public lands issues, and a demonstrated commitment to collaboration in seeking solutions to those issues. All nominees must be Alaska residents.

Call the BLM at 271-3335 to request a nomination packet or visit www.ak.blm.gov. All nominations must be accompanied by letters of reference from the interests or organizations to be represented. Nominations will be accepted until March 24, 2006. Final selection will be made by the Secretary of Interior. Appointments become effective October 1, 2006.
